By: Avi Benlolo, President and CEO, Canada

If a "tipping-point" can be attained to sell mass products, a "tipping-point" can be attained to sell mass-good.

I consider myself fortunate to have an opportunity to work with hundreds of people who are striving to make the world a better place. They are all passionate about confronting antisemitism and hate while promoting the virtues of tolerance and understanding. Together, I believe we are building an institution in Canada that espouses these values while strengthening Canadian society as a whole.

Our organizational leadership is second to none as we continue to attract leaders who are exemplary citizens. I am delighted by the addition to our Board of Directors of Mr. Anthony Comper, Immediate Past President and CEO of Bank of Montreal; Rabbi Meyer May, Executive Director of the Simon Wiesenthal Center; Alex Shnaider, Co-Founder & Chairman of the Board, Midland Group and Sandra Waldman, Secretary-Treasurer, Marnlen Management Ltd.

FSWC Responds to ACJC

By: Leo Adler, Director National Affairs

This letter to the Winnipeg Free Press was to refute at least part of what Jason Kunin of the Alliance of Concerned Jewish Canadians wrote in an op-ed. The community should be aware that such Jewish organizations (whether they acknowledge it or not, whether they are aware of it or not) are becoming fodder for the justification of those non-Jews who seek to either dismantle or severely limit Israel's capacity to either defend itself or even to remain a Jewish State.

Dear Sir;

I received a copy of the article printed in the Winnipeg Free Press and I would like to make a few comments about it.

As far as I can discern, the author presents that more and more Jews, especially in the Diaspora, are becoming more and more critical of Israel, they are becoming more and more organized in their criticism and that, as a result, the "traditionalist" Jewish organizations are in a panic and resorting to "conflate(ing) antisemitism with anti-Zionism in order to silence or marginalize criticism of Israel." This is then further repeated when Mr. Kunin states "it is fallacious to argue that anyone who criticizes Israel is antisemitic because antisemites attack Israel."

Thank You for Participating in a Great Cause

The board is comprised of twenty-four leaders who are active with FSWC through their support and assistance with events and programmes. Our exponential growth is further exemplified through the numerous volunteers involved in our screenings, lunches and major benefits.

For the Resource and Leadership Training Centre, I am thankful to our incredible Board of Directors and our Chairman, Gerald W. Schwartz. I am also thankful for the support and vision of sponsors like Tom and Anna Koffler; Joseph and Adam Gottdenker; Anthony and Elizabeth Comper; Harry and Barbara Silverberg; Joel Feldberg and Family; Markus Luft and Esther Schwartz; Faye Minuk; George and Andrea Kalmar; The Mendelsohn Family Foundation; Ron and Shirly Ander; Sheldon and Mary Hellin; Ken Rubin; and Cecil and Danny Yolles and Family.

But what is sometimes invisible to the public eye is the incredible education and tolerance outreach programming administered by volunteers and staff alike through the Centre. Many Tools for Tolerance alumnus for example, are volunteering their time to educate their colleagues through diversity and sensitivity programmes. Some of these programmes take place within their own institutions, while others are conducted in our new Resource and Leadership Training Centre and the Tom and Anna Koffler Tolerance Training Centre.

For initiating cultural diversity and tolerance programmes, I am especially thankful to people like Karen Moffatt, Inspector, Staff Development and Training, Western Region OPP; Ricky S. Veerappan of the York Regional Police; Chris D'Souza, Equity and Diversity Officer, Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board; Sharon Moss, Principal, York Region District School Board and Yaw Obeng, Superintendent, Halton District School Board.

All of us at the Friends of Simon Wiesenthal Center and many in the public sector are concerned about the increase of hate and intolerance.

A recent Leger Marketing poll commissioned by Sun Media found that 47% of Canadians confess to having racist views while 67% of those admitted to being somewhat racist. It also found that 92% of Canadians have witnessed a bigoted remark or behaviour – yet just one-third actually took action to intervene or inform authorities.

These statistics are clearly disturbing. With the help of numerous community stakeholders, Friends of Simon Wiesenthal Center is well positioned to meet these growing challenges head-on. We are cultivating heroes from all walks of life and from all cultural and religious backgrounds to confront hatred wherever it manifests.

One local hero who quietly passed into the night recently was Dr. David Seager, founder of the Seager Hair Transplant Center. Frustrated by the rising tide of antisemitism and unfair and biased sentiment toward the State of Israel, Dr. Seager contacted me directly several years ago.

He not only offered his personal help and support, but was willing to stand with the Center at a time when the Jewish world was feeling a 'tsunami' of hate. I will miss my conversations with David. I will miss having lunch with him. I will miss seeing him at our events. I will miss his strength and support.

Friends of Simon Wiesenthal Center will continue confronting hate for David and for the family he leaves behind.

Thank you to all who are part of this great cause.

Dr. David Seager

Holocaust Denial from the Middle East, to Europe, to Canada

By: Michael Ettegui, Education Associate

Recent trends in the Middle East exemplify the use of Holocaust denial to delegitimize the State of Israel. The denial conference convened by President Ahmadinejad of Iran had immediate influence in the region. Shortly thereafter, a spin-off gathering entitled The Holocaust Lie was convened in Cairo by the Arab Socialist Party and aired on Al-Alam TV in Arabic.

European nations however, have taken the lead in combating Holocaust denial with eleven countries passing anti-denial laws. British “historian” David Irving was recently sentenced to a three-year jail

term for Holocaust denial stemming from remarks he made in 1989. Ernst Zundel, the neo-Nazi who spent many years operating out of Toronto was also sentenced to a 5 year prison term in Manheim, Germany.

Here in Canada, Manitoba's governing NDP passed a resolution condemning Holocaust denial. FSWC has been at the forefront in the fight against this form of antisemitism. We recently forwarded the personal information of key members of the National-Socialist Party of Canada, a group dedicated to denying the Holocaust – to the OPP and an investigation into these individuals was subsequently launched. FSWC is also on the prosecution team – along with CJC and B'nai Brith – of Marc Lemire, a leading Canadian white supremacist and Holocaust denier who is challenging the constitutionality of Section 13 at the Canadian Human Rights Act.

All of this is quite interesting and, while I can't presume to speak for Canadian Jewish Congress (Bernie Farber is quite capable of doing that), I do agree that no one organization can ever be said to be the sole voice of a particular community's Jewish people. Perhaps one day there should be an election of sorts to see if there ought to be an “official mouthpiece”, but for now, one does not exist.

Indeed, an often-voiced criticism of the Israeli political process is that it seems that no one party per se can be said to represent itself as the voice of Israel's Jewish population. In fact, a casual observer may be mistaken for wondering how is it that there are more political parties, sects, groupings, organizations, committees, agencies, etc. than there are Jews! The answer, quite simply, is that Jews have always been notoriously quarrelsome and opinionated and therefore sometimes hold more than one opinion, thereby necessitating multiple political parties and so on.

The point is that it is nothing new to have Jews criticize or defend Israeli policies. The Israelis themselves do so (criticize or defend) in droves every week in Tel Aviv's Rabin Park and in the media and in the universities and in the Knesset. And, like in other democracies, including Canada, those who disagree with the prevailing policies are often the subject of criticism, just as much as those who support a particular policy are critiqued by their opponents. And yes, occasionally, the tones and rhetoric used are uncivil, impolite and downright rude.

So what? In democracies, if you don't like the way your views are portrayed or presented and believe that you were slurred or libeled then the rule of law allows for redress through the courts.

My point is that the author is being intellectually dishonest and misstating the truth about Jewish criticism of Israeli policies when he makes it appear as if dissent is absolutely stifled by some “Big Brotheresque” collusion on the part of Jewish organizations. I suggest that if he and others feel stifled it is more likely due to the fact that, at least in Canada, they are truly a minority and not listened to, because the vast majority of Canadian Jews simply don't agree with them.

There is, however, a darker side effect to what Mr. Kunin writes. By claiming to be a victim of big Jewish groups he feeds into and reinforces the bigotry and canards that have plagued all Jews, whether Zionists or not, religious or not, to the left or right of the political spectrum, for or against Israeli policies. And that is dangerous and that does place Jews at risk, no matter what their political views.

There is one other point that I must make. I have read and re-read the article several times. Throughout, Mr. Kunin keeps referring to “Israel”, never to “Israeli policies” or “Israel's Government” or “Governmental policy” or anything similar.

By failing to differentiate between the State of Israel as an entity which is deserving of respect and support as a homeland for Jews - just as the Arab Republic of Egypt, the Islamic Republic of Iran and the countless other Islamic and Christian, Hindu and Buddhist States are deserving of respect and support as homelands of Arabs, Moslems, etc. – he has undermined a basic tenet of any democracy: that criticism of policies and Governments are absolutely welcomed, encouraged and tolerated, but the undermining of the State as a State crosses the line because that is the beginning of the end of any democracy. That is the hard lesson learned from history and that is the lesson that Mr. Kunin and others seem to have either ignored or never learned.

It is this type of undermining of the State of Israel (within whatever boundaries are eventually decided upon) that is condemned, and properly so, by not only Jewish organizations, but by ordinary Jews as well.

There are numerous other points in the article that I would love to discuss, but for now, I will sign off.

Yours truly,
Leo Adler

Educating the World of Professionals: Tools for Tolerance®

By: Susan Kendal, Project Coordinator

Since beginning the Tools for Tolerance® programme in May 2006, Friends of Simon Wiesenthal Center has sent 6 delegations to Los Angeles resulting in over 230 Canadian participants trained at the Museum of Tolerance. We are very proud of our alumni and their continued work and active involvement with FSWC. They are presenting workshops at our Resource and Leadership Training Centre as well as participating as students in the Educator's Workshop Series. Past participants have attended our recent documentary screenings and will be participating in upcoming lectures and sessions. Most importantly, our Tools alumni have become our ambassadors, constantly referring their colleagues to our programmes and presenting the "tools" they have learned to their respective institutes on our behalf.

"The Tools programme is extremely inspirational. Very challenging, thought-provoking and emotional. The whole experience has a way of becoming part of all that we are, and all that we could be."

— Keith Samuelson, Global Education Coordinator, Prince of Wales Collegiate, Easter School District of Newfoundland & Labrador.

Friends is delighted to report that the upcoming Tools for Tolerance® programmes are all filled with a waiting list. Future programmes are:

March 26-28, Law Enforcement Partnerships with Schools (LPS): Building Inclusive, Safe Communities

April 23-25, Premier Programme for Command Staff (Senior Officers)

May 7-8, Educational Leadership for Inclusive Schools

In addition, we have opened another course to fulfill the demand from Canadian educators. The new course date for Educational Leadership for Inclusive Schools is May 14-15. This programme is open for registration.

Please contact, Susan Kendal, Project Coordinator, at 416.864.9735 x 32 or skendal@fswc.ca for more information.

Students' Responses

to screenings of I have Never Forgotten You: The Life and Legacy of Simon Wiesenthal

"Simon (Wiesenthal) was the prime role model for all Jews. The respect he had for the victims of the Holocaust and the determination to seek justice are virtues that we must all find within ourselves."

— Eli Weinstein, CHAT RH student, age 17

"I have studied the holocaust every year for the last 6 or 7 years. I learnt more in those two hours than I have in all those years. I highly suggest taking the time to see the movie!"

— Tyler Sharpe, CHAT RH student, age 17

Friends Respond to so called 'Israel Apartheid Week'

By: Josh Hacker, Community Outreach Coordinator

Israel Apartheid Week was held on university campuses in four cities across Canada from February 12-17, 2007.

A full variety of programmes were held in Toronto, with other programmes held in Montreal, Hamilton, and Ottawa.

FSWC was out on campus monitoring the events and responding. A letter was sent to the President of the University of Toronto regarding Israel Apartheid

Some of the banners on display at University of Toronto's 2007 annual 'Israel Apartheid Week'

Week, and a letter was also sent to the President of McMaster University regarding our disappointment in allowing Norman Finkelstein to speak on campus. At a programme featuring Jamal Zahalka, Arab Israeli MK in the Israeli Knesset, FSWC thanked Dr. Zahalka for speaking during Israel Apartheid Week thereby disproving the notion that Israel is an apartheid state and presented him with a letter written by Avi Benlolo, President & CEO of FSWC. All of these letters can be found on www.fswc.ca.

What's Happening at the Resource and Leadership Training Centre®

Our newly renovated 2000 square foot facility is quickly becoming the address for tolerance education in the city. Educators and Law Enforcement Professionals have been eagerly visiting the Centre to participate in workshops and training sessions designed by Friends.

Recent programmes held in the Tom and Anna Koffler Tolerance Training Centre include; Teaching a Diverse Classroom, presented by Chris D'Souza, Equity and Human Rights Officer for the Dufferin Peel Catholic District School Board, attended by 25 teachers from 6 school boards. Confronting September 11th, presented by John Myers, Curriculum Instructor at the Ontario Institute for Studies (OISE) in Education of the University of Toronto and Lilach Golan, Director of Judaic Studies at the Montessori Jewish Day School, attended by an intimate group of 15 teachers from 3 school boards. Paul Simmons, Director of Student Services at CHAT RH and occasional instructor at OISE, presented a workshop entitled Building Moral Courage to a group of 32 teachers from 6 school boards.

A discussion on antisemitism and hate crimes was facilitated by Michael Ettegui, Education Associate, FSWC, to 8 members of the OPP Western Region Diversity Advisory Group. They also viewed the

"I have just returned home from a truly inspiring evening at the Centre presented by Chris D'Souza. I felt so proud to be Jewish and to see what the Centre is doing to bring so many cultures together to provide a deeper understanding of what it means to be tolerant in our society. I am convinced that what you are doing will have an impact. I had five of my own staff present and we were all thrilled to be part of the presentation."

Moriah Films documentary, Ever Again. Another workshop presented by Michael Ettegui was held in March entitled Investigating and Combating Online Extremism, attended by 20 police officers from 5 police service boards. Denise Gordon, TDSB Educator, hosted a lecture entitled How a Dresser Saved a Life, attended by 20 teachers from 4 school boards who are taking their students to see the FSWC sponsored production of The Secret of Gabi's Dresser. Feedback from participants has been phenomenal.

Upcoming workshops

Never Again! Again: Responding to Genocide in the 21st Century, facilitated by Norman Epstein.

William Stevenson, bestselling author of A Man Called Intrepid speaking about his latest book, Spymistress: The Life of Vera Atkins.

Bi-monthly educator's group discussion on classroom applications for Maus, the graphic novel by Art Spiegelman, facilitated by David Booth, Professor Emeritus at OISE in Education of the University of Toronto.

RESOURCE AND LEADERSHIP TRAINING CENTRE

GRAND OPENING

By: Ester Lang

Over one-hundred distinguished guests joined FSWC on March 26 to celebrate the much anticipated grand opening of The Resource and Leadership Training Centre at 5075 Yonge Street.

Guests enjoyed a tour of the sleek, 2,000-square-foot, facility which features a library of tolerance, interactive computer workstations, and a spacious classroom-style lecture space. The Centre would not be complete without the artistic touch of Ian Leventhal, Toronto based sculptor and artist, who designed its inaugural exhibit entitled, "The Making of a War Criminal." The exhibit juxtaposes the similarities between Hitler and the current President of Iran, Ahmadinejad.

"Unfortunately, hate and intolerance is not disappearing," explained Avi Benlolo, President and CEO of FSWC, Canada. "Poll after poll has shown that Canadian society suffers greatly from racism. The Resource and Leadership Training Centre will help tip the scale for the better by creating leaders and informed citizens that will take a stand against hate and antisemitism."

Special guests included, Honourable Monte Kwinter, MPP, who brought best wishes on behalf of the Premier of Ontario; Gerry W. Schwartz, President and CEO of Onex Corporation and FSWC Chairman; Los Angeles' SWC Executive Director, Rabbi Meyer

May, who was honoured with the traditional mezuzah dedication; Rabbi Abraham Cooper, SWC Associate Dean; Lorna R. Marsden, President and Vice-Chancellor, York University; Bill Blair, Toronto Chief of Police; Bill Closs, Kingston Chief of Police; Gary Crowell, Halton Chief of Police; Armand La Barge, York Region Chief of Police; Blair Foley, Staff Superintendent Peel Police; and Marty Power, Inspector Halton Police.

In attendance were FSWC's dedicated donors such as, Anthony Comper, FSWC Board of Directors; Tom and Anna Koffler, FSWC Board of Governors and donors of the Tom and Anne Koffler Tolerance Training Centre; Harry and Barb Silverberg, FSWC Board of Governors, and donors of the Reference Collection Library; Joseph Gottdenker, FSWC Board of Governors, and his son, Adam Gottdenker, donors of the Reception Area; and Markus Luft and Esther Schwartz, FSWC Founders.

With numerous workshops, seminars, and film screenings already scheduled in the coming months, the Centre will undoubtedly succeed in fostering greater social awareness and tolerance education throughout Canada. Once fully operational, FSWC anticipates some 10,000 people will access the facility yearly. Visit www.fswc.ca for details.

At the mezuzah dedication ceremony are (L-R) Rabbi Meyer May, SWC Executive Director and FSWC Board Member; Dr. Jeffrey Erlich, Donor; Gerald W. Schwartz, President and CEO of Onex Corp and FSWC Chairman of the Board; and Avi Benlolo, President and CEO, FSWC Canada.
